

GALA PROM ANTICIPATED

DISAPPEARANCE OF TROPHIES SOLVED

Prizes Taken From Several Fraternity Houses Appear In College Pharmacy Window

Although the stolen trophies themselves have been located and are in the process of being returned to their respective owners, the case itself is not closed according to Chief of Police, Louis Bourgoïn.

Chief Bourgoïn said that he knows who the three students are who invaded several of the fraternities on the campus late last Saturday night and made off with various athletic and scholastic trophies belonging to those houses. Unless one of the houses affected wishes to have steps taken, nothing will come of the affair which had all of Durham in a quandary Sunday and Monday.

The New Hampshire was informed Sunday night of the disappearance of the trophies, and immediately contacted the various fraternities in an endeavor to locate the missing prizes. Chief Bourgoïn was notified.

Meanwhile the persons who had appropriated the articles apparently got "cold feet" and at about midnight notified the various fraternities as well as The New Hampshire and advised them that if they wanted their trophies they could find them in the window of the College Pharmacy.

The several fraternities sent representatives to the pharmacy corner and when they all collected they apparently assumed the attitude of a group of vigilantes. Several of them secured soap and wrote derogatory things on the windows and then painted similar wording on the front walk and departed.

Because of illness Mr. James Gorman could not be reached yesterday morning for a statement. Mrs. Gorman, acting in her husband's absence narrated the happenings of the previous evening. As Gorman was closing the store at the usual time of about 11 o'clock, he was visited by three fellows who asked permission to place a collection of trophies in the window of his store.

Since he is often asked to put trophies in his windows for various contests and competitions, Gorman thought nothing of it and agreed. The three possessors of the trophies proceeded to put the trophies about the window and departed. Mr. Gorman proceeded to close the store. Although he was somewhat surprised at the number of cups and plaques he thought that it was a fraternity stunt for freshmen of some sort.

According to Mrs. Gorman nothing more was thought about the matter until some student called them at 1:30 in the morning and advised them of the condi-

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF YACHT CLUB REFUSES DEFECTIVE SLOOPS

Cancel Agreement with Original Firm; Plans for Launching Not Cancelled

The plans of the Yacht Club are again underway with the arrival of two new boats expected next Thursday.

Upon receiving two of its six knockabout sloops last week from a North Andover firm, the Yacht Club cancelled the contract and charged the failure of the firm to comply with specifications. At the Thursday night meeting the members decided after seeing the boats, that they preferred quality to quantity. The executive committee went to Marcus Lowell's boat yard in Amesbury Saturday night, and after looking over various boats, they decided on four winnabout sloop-rig sixteen-foot boats, which are more expensive than the six knockabouts previously ordered. Two of the new boats are coming next week and the others are expected at a later date.

The boats previously ordered were rejected because of failure of the builders to follow plans for the amount of sail to be carried, use of inferior wood and other non-compliance of the agreement.

Mr. Leon Glover, a faculty advisor of the club, expressed great satisfaction with the type of boat ordered Saturday night, saying that the quality was much superior to the six knockabout sloops previously ordered.

Plans for the Regatta and Launching which last week were thought to have been completely ruined, will continue as before with the arrival of the new sloops.

The boats are to have a length of 16 feet overall with beam of 5½ feet. Planked with native pine, they are to be fitted with 22 feet Sitka spruce masts. Hardware will be bronze throughout. Sails are to be extra Grade Palmer Racing Sails cut from E. S. Smith and Company's Yacht finish in appropriate colors. The first two boats, arriving on Thursday, will be displayed for inspection by all interested on the lawn by Morrill Hall.

tion of the pharmacy. The soap was easily washed off the windows but the paint was still on the walk as The New Hampshire goes to press.

Chief Bourgoïn has not had any official complaint filed as yet and will not take action until such time as the fraternities request it.

Meanwhile Mr. Gorman awaits the removal of the paint by the well meaning "vigilantes" who put it there.

Author of "The Far Off Hills" Improves Modern Irish Drama

by Kay Metcalf

Lennox Robinson, the author of Mask and Dagger's production, The Far-Off Hills, which is to play May 25, 26 and 27, has done much to aid and improve the interests of the Irish theatre.

At the time the Abbey Players became interested in producing the Irish peasant play, just about the time of the death of one of its leaders, Synge, in 1909, Lennox Robinson appeared on the dramatic horizon. He was among the pioneers who wished to contribute to this type of drama, and through such writers as he the Abbey Theatre was able to extend its influence and increase its audiences.

His first play to be produced by the Abbey Theatre was The Clancy Name, a one-act drama dealing with the conflict between a son and his race-conscious mother. The Cross Roads followed. This and his still later Harvest, was a story of life and struggle on Irish farmland, which revealed the author's lack of knowledge of rural Ireland, and became almost peasant melodrama. All of his plays had been steadily improving up until then, however, and his turning to political themes in his Patriots and The Dreamers, showed this to the fullest extent. Then he changed again and wrote comedies, of which The White-Headed Boy, and The Far-Off Hills, are the most popular. His humor is thoroughly naive, true to life, and essentially Irish, intermixed with a little of the West Britain.

One of his most noteworthy innovations to the Irish theatre has been the organization of the Dublin Drama League. This was the first institution of its kind in the British Isles and concentrated upon the production of plays not within the category of the Abbey Theatre. It has proved to be very successful and has produced not only national plays but several continental works as well.

Lennox Robinson has kept on, at the same time, with his interests in the Abbey Theatre. He set it on its feet again after the post-war decline and he has been manager of it since. He is at present considered one of the foremost Irish dramatists of our generation.

MANY AUTHORS ARE ON SUMMER PROGRAM

From August 1 to 11 the first annual writers' conference will be held. The staff of the conference is composed of leading authors of American prose, poetry, and drama, and is to be a part of the summer program of the University of New Hampshire, according to an announcement made this week by Carroll S. Towle, assistant professor of English and director of the conference.

Robert P. Tristram Coffin who is well known in present day literature for his poetry and prose, heads the list of writers. Mr. Coffin is a recent Pulitzer prize winner in poetry for his Strange Holiness, and has had published Saltwater Farm and Kennebec River, the first of a series on American rivers.

Gladys Hasty Carroll, author of "As the Earth Turns" and other works based on southern Maine, will present to the conference the phase of New England literature. Her most recent publication was the novel "Neighbor to the Sky."

Also among the prominent writers will be Carl Carmer, writer of regional narration and description, and author of "Stars Fell on Alabama." Mr. Carmer is a former newspaperman and staff member of "Vanity Fair" and has recently been broadcasting dramatizations of American life as he has seen it.

Timothy E. Fuller, author of the Atlantic Monthly's first mystery story "Harvard Homicide"; Shirley Barker, winner of the 1933 Yale contest for younger poets; and George B. Abbe, short story writer and poet, whose first novel will be published early this summer, are among the younger members to be present.

William E. Harris, Boston newspaper critic and literary counsel, will serve as publishing advisor for conference members. Mr. Harris was formerly a student under the late Professor George P. Baker at his "47 workshop" at Harvard university.

GERMAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the German Club will take place this Wednesday night at the Sigma Beta house at 8 P. M. Mrs. Funkhouser will entertain the members with songs in costume. The brass quartet has been engaged, and will accompany songs as well as playing selections. Bob Bradley will be there with his piano accordion, and Henry Cassidy has consented to sing a few solos.

It is expected that the next meeting of the club will be held out-of-doors, when the members will hike to a near-by pasture for a picnic supper.

COMING EVENTS

TUESDAY

DEAN HUDSON

Hollis Wilcox is Chosen Prom Queen; Beverley Swain And Betty Brown Her Aides

Miss Hollis Wilcox has been named Queen for the Junior Prom which will take place April 27. Miss Wilcox, a member of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority, has been prominent in campus activities. She is secretary and treasurer of Pan-Hellenic and on the Big Sister committee. Last year she was a member of the Sophomore Hop committee, and this year she is serving on the Junior Prom committee. Miss Wilcox also belongs to the Outing Club and is a Pep-Cat.

The Queen's two aides, chosen by the committee are Betty Brown and Beverley Swain.

Miss Brown, a member of Chi Omega social sorority, was recently elected to Student Government. She was a member of the latter organization last year as well as a member of the Sophomore Hop Committee. This year she is serving on the Junior Prom Committee and is president of Women's Athletic Association of which she was secretary last year. Miss Brown belongs to Psi Lambda, honorary home economics fraternity and the Outing Club. She was class secretary her sophomore year and served on the Big Sister Committee.

Miss Swain, a member of Alpha Xi Delta social sorority, is prominent in campus activities. He belongs to the International Relations Club, and is serving on the Junior Prom Committee. Last year she was a member of the Big Sister Committee. Miss Swain is house treasurer and has recently returned from a sorority convention at Philadelphia.

Last Major Dance of Year Held Under Blue Sky and Flowers, In Spring Theme

The annual Junior Prom, to be held Friday April 29, will have as a theme for decorations, a spring garden. The bare walls of the gym will be ornamented with fences and flowers, tending to transpose the interior into a spring garden.

A blue sky covering the ceiling and balcony will complete the effect.

Dean Hudson and his fifteen Florida Clubmen will entertain. Miss Frances Colwell, soloist, Harold Willis, novelty singer and a vocal trio will swing out rhythm favorites. Local fraternity songs will be sung as well as school songs.

Every member of this orchestra is a graduate of the University of Florida. An added attraction is the glee club which is comprised of the entire band singing old time ballads and popular numbers.

The faculty, including the graduate assistants, for the first time in many years will have the privilege of being able to attend the dance with only the payment of the federal tax.

Dancing will be from 9 to 12. Hollis Wilcox, the Junior Prom Queen, will be presented with a loving cup prior to the intermission, which is from 11:30 to 12:00. The dance will continue until 2:00.

The thirteen Greek-letter fraternities will hold their Spring house dances on the Saturday following the Junior Prom. These dances will be held during the usual hours from eight o'clock until twelve.

THE RETURN OF JOE COLLEGE

Commentators, educators and journalists have united in proclaiming the death of Joe College. Joe suffered a severe attack of depressionitis in the dark days following the October crash in '29, and after rallying slightly was finally pronounced dead. Those who came after Joe were reputedly more serious. They expressed an interest in the problems of the day, and openly admitted that they had come to college to secure an education.

This week-end Joe fooled the world, and returned to lead those noble souls who had been struggling along in an effort to keep his memory alive. He had been employed writing scripts for the movies at a fabulous salary, but ever true to his ideals he gave it all up to save our college youth from the pernicious influence of seriousness, individuality and intellectual curiosity. In the best movie technique, he and some of the boys raided the fraternities and collected cups and plaques. True, it was a very ancient prank, but his simple mind still considered it clever. Had not the Rah-Rah club endorsed it whole-heartedly as a fundamental part of their initiation ceremonies? The fact that he committed a felony, and caused a store owner to have his property defaced, did not bother him. What did anyone else matter, he was having fun.

Joe is a curious and rather pathetic specimen, but he is too filled with his own importance to realize it. Instead, he looks down from his superior position upon the "drips", those unfortunates who have ideas of their own, profess an interest in national and international problems, ask questions in class, and even disagree with the professor, appreciate music other than swing, make the dean's list, and worst of all, hint that perhaps our government isn't perfect, and that other forms of government have a few good points. Ah, poor benighted individuals, "communists", "wetties", can't you see the light?

No one could ever accuse Joe of being "wet". No sir! He is one of the boys. He "eats up, drinks up, sleeps up, shoots over to Dover for a brew", and occasionally even "studies up" enough to stay in college with the help of the "boys." He's all for it. For what?—anything that doesn't require too much mental effort, is sufficiently pleasant to keep him happy, and conforms strictly with the status quo. Poor Joe. Perhaps some day he will find a separate personality and a justification for living. Let's hope so!

No! We aren't referring to you. It's the guy next door.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Congratulations to the new Student Council members. May their year of service show them to be fully worthy of the great trust which you have bestowed upon them, as their success or failure is the success or failure of all the men students to make this University a better and more worthwhile community.

They are your representatives and as such deserve your whole-hearted cooperation. Your support and your suggestions are essential if they are to govern effectively.

TO THE EDITOR:

The Suffragette, and all other co-eds displeased by university restrictions on their personal liberty, will be pleased to learn that there has been a radical change in the policy towards women's privileges. The office of the Dean of Women, from which all the restraining rules emerge, issues the following startling announcements, affecting all but the curfew rules:

All rules based on the reason that "it doesn't look nice" are herewith abandoned. This includes restrictions on conduct around the steps and lawns of the dormitories and on the wearing of heretofore objectionable clothing. Smoking is allowed any time, in any place, including convocations, classes, in the dormitories, and in the library. Cigarette butts may be thrown any place, extinguished or not.

To emphasize the complete liberalization of policy there is the specific announcement that any woman student, upon filing with the Dean of Women an 18,000 word thesis on the subject of nudism, may appear on the campus with no clothing at all.

Any woman student may lose the privilege of enjoying the new liberalization unless she agrees to the following consideration: On one Saturday night every month each co-ed must hitch hike to Dover and become intoxicated with beer. It is expected that none of the women will be foolish enough to sacrifice their new privileges by an unwillingness to comply with this slight consideration.

Hats Off To --

Paul Horne for his election as president of the Student Council. This is the highest honor which can be bestowed upon a student in the college. The New Hampshire wishes him the best of luck.

Barbara Shields for her election as president of the Women's Student Government, a position of respect and authority. To her also we extend best wishes for her tenure of office.

Dr. Harold A. Iddles and Dean George W. Case for their contributions and the part their respective departments played in the science show which was given last week. The university is fortunate to have the men of this type and calibre in charge of the technological departments of the school.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Students are requested to cooperate with the University architect and the construction company during the erection of structural steel for the new Field House. The work can proceed more rapidly and with less danger to workmen and spectators if students will, for a time at least, not frequent the building site.

FRESHMAN ORCHESTRA PLAYS AT COMMONS

Jack Mitchell's freshman orchestra made its debut last Saturday night at the Commons when they played for the freshman exchange supper. Featuring their leader's skillful trumpet, they had the whole dining hall pounding on the tables in time with their "swing" music.

After the supper, at which the Deans of the University were guests of the freshmen, the "Wildcats", as they will be called in the future, played in the Trophy Room for dancing.

The band is made up entirely of freshmen: Saxes: Robert Dudley, Malcolm Hall and Earl Krauser. Trumpets: Jack Mitchell, William Gardner and Robert Eastman. Piano: Robert Prescott. Trombone: Frank Doughty. Drums: Tom Adams.

The supper was one of a series designed by Mrs. Knowlton, hostess at the Commons, to help the freshmen get better acquainted with the campus people. At previous suppers the freshman instructors, the housemothers and the Military Science instructors have been guests of the freshmen.

compelled to ask your momentary indulgence.

For the "Critic's" charge must indeed be answered. The gentleman's essay on the Theta Chi Granite situation reflects far too little research into the past.

The editorship has been in hands other than Theta Chi at different periods in the last dozen years. If it has drifted back after sojourns in other Greek letter homes not once, but several times, capability must have been pronounced.

In 1926, Harry Steere, a Theta Chi, was editor of the Granite. In 1928, we find a Phi Mu Delta, C. Ned Elliott, at the helm. We can't recall the 1929 editor, but in 1930, it was Ray Sawyer, a Theta Chi. The three editors that followed Sawyer were all Theta Chi's, the writer in '31, Conrad Peterson in '32, and Bart McKinney in '33.

In 1934, Delpho Caminati, a Kappa Sig, was editor. The fortunes of the top post after that are unknown to us. Yet if the annual is back in the hands of Theta Chi again, surely somewhere someone proved worthy enough to be appointed.

And while we're on the subject, Mr. Critic, just why would you rename the book the Granite of Theta Chi of U. N. H.? Have the editors ever omitted any necessary yearbook contents to further the interest of Theta Chi? Has the Theta Chi group picture ever been any larger than that of your own fraternity, or any other? Has there ever been, in short, any revelation of bias in the make-up of the book? We think not.

Actually, the editor's job is a difficult and uncheered task, requiring good hard work, perseverance, and a sincere love of Alma Mater first, fraternity second.

Maybe that's what's thrown you off.

Editor, 1931 Granite

COLLEAGUES HONOR PROFESSOR RICHARDS

A surprise party, in honor of his 25th year as a member of the faculty of this institution, was tendered to Professor A. E. Richards, at his home Sunday evening, by members of the English department.

The popular English professor received a very welcome gift, from his colleagues, in the form of an authentic Ruskin letter, written by the English author, to Stillman, an American. As Professor Richards' special field is the works of Ruskin, he was very pleased by this thoughtful present. Mrs. Richards was given a large bouquet of flowers.

HER JUNGLE LOVEKITTEN STICKMEN BOW TO HARVARD FROSH

The freshman lacrosse team went down to its second defeat of the season Saturday afternoon at Lewis fields, when the superior experience and strength of the Harvard yearlings gave the Cambridgeans a 5-2 victory.

Bob Blackler was the big noise in the Blue and White attack, as far as scoring was concerned, for he scored both the Kittens' two goals, but he was closely rivalled for effectiveness by Bob Knox and Stan Smith, both of whom played smashing games. Blackler scored once in the opening period and again in the third period. The Harvard goals were made in all four quarters, one in the first, the third and the fourth, and two in the second.

Saturday, the yearlings swing into action again, when the Governor Dummer stickmen from South Byfield, Mass. invade Durham.

The summary:

Harvard '41—Ierard, ih; Lyford, oh; Zouck, 1st a; Gilbert, 2nd a; Murnaghan, c; Sader, 2nd d; Chesman, 1st d; O'Connor, cp; Edmunds, p; Hanford, g.

New Hampshire '41—Blackler, ih; Piper, oh; Smith, 1st a; Knox, 2nd a; Hart, c; Glimes, 2nd d; Brunel, 1st d; Graham, cp; Elliot, p; Wentzel, g.

Harvard substitutes—Mansfield, Matthews, Savage, Stein.

New Hampshire substitutes — Spicer, Frey, Bugler, Mullon.

Goals—Blackler (NH) 2; Zouck (H) 3; Murnaghan (H) 2.

Varsity Lacrosse Team Trounces Tech.

New Hampshire's varsity lacrosse team had a field day at the expense of M.I.T., Saturday afternoon, in Cambridge, and romped to a 10-1 victory. Tech was seemingly powerless to stem the Blue and White tide, and after three periods of heavy scoring, the Wildcats turned it into more or less of a practice session, with concentration on passing and teamwork.

Wally Ballou was top scorer for New Hampshire with three goals from his center position, while Don Otis and Walt Piretti, 1st defense and out home, respectively, each scored twice. Others to tally for the winners were Charlie Karazia, Amby Kinion and Fred Gilgun. The lone Engineer goal was scored by Creamer, out home.

For their next game, the 'Cats stack up against the powerful Harvard team, tomorrow, again in Cambridge. Harvard reputedly is very strong, although it lost to the Boston Lacrosse club, 5-7 Saturday. Last year, the Crimson defeated New Hampshire, 7-3, and, as they have an even stronger team at present, it would seem that the local boys will have some real competition at last.

KITTENS NOSED OUT BY EXETER TRACKMEN

Flaherty, Meade, Lang, and Crooks Star as Frosh Lose By Quarter-inch Margin

That very small things sometimes count a great deal was effectively demonstrated Saturday afternoon, at Exeter academy, when the University of New Hampshire freshman track team lost to the Exonians, 62-64, with the distance of one-quarter of an inch in the discus throw deciding the outcome of the meet.

The score stood at 60-57, in favor of the Academy boys, when the discus throw, the final events of the day was called. A first and second place in this event would win the meet for the Kittens, while a first and third place would leave the score tied. When it became certain that Mat Flaherty's 114 foot heave would take first place honors, Stan Styrna, who had adjourned to the showers after taking second place in the hammer throw and competing in the broad jump, was sent for to try and win another place. Although Styrna had not thrown the discus since last season, he responded with a number of steadily improving throws, finally on his last throw, getting off what seemed to be a certain place-winner. When it was measured, however, the officials announced that Styrna's throw had been a scant quarter of an inch short, and that Exeter had captured second and third place, and the meet.

Although the freshmen lost the meet, they turned in an excellent performance while doing so. Mat Flaherty, with first places in the hammer and discus throws, and a third place in the shot put, was the individual star of the afternoon, and he was closely pressed for honors, by Dick Meade, who came through as expected with victories in the mile and half mile.

It was in the sprints, however, that the Kittens made their best showing; they made almost a clean sweep of both dashes. Bob Lang, flashy speeder from the wilds of Long Island, provided a definite upset in the 100 yard dash, when he led the highly touted Exonians and his own teammates to the tape, in the very fast early season time of 10.2. Second in this race was Will Crook, while Wally Mather was barely nosed out for third place by Sleeper of Exeter. A short while later, Crooks passed Lang in the final yards of the 220 and crossed the finish line first, with Lang and Mather right behind him in one-two order.

After trailing his two Exeter opponents in the 120 yard high hurdles, Mike Pieciewicz found himself, and sped to victory in the 220 yard lows. Pieciewicz, who won both the timber-topping events in last week's intramurals, is showing marked improvement in form, and is being counted on for many points in the future.

Other New Hampshire victories were hung up in the broad jump, as Wally Mather leaped 20 feet 11 inches, and in the javelin throw, which Frank Openshaw won with a heave of 140 feet. The pole vault and high jump, however, found the Blue and White lads sadly lacking in talent, and in these events, the victors walked off with all places.

The summary:

100 yard dash—Won by Lang (NH); second, Crook (NH); third, Sleeper (E). Time, 10.2.

220 yard dash—Won by Croik (NH); second, Lang (NH); third, Mather, (NH). Time, 23.7.

120 yard high hurdles—Won by Sargent (E); second, Rodman (E); third, Pieciewicz (NH). Time, 16.3.

The freshman track team certainly put up a good fight against Exeter the other day. Any meet in which the last event decides the entire affair may be regarded as a great contest in anybody's language. With a bit more strength in the jumping events, that is, the pole vault and the high jump, the Kittens would have one of the best balanced teams in New England.

The varsity track team gets going tomorrow and although it is pretty early for the boys to be in tip top shape, they should manage to fare quite well. Brown is very strong in the dashes and the weights. New Hampshire is strong in the hurdles and distances. As our worthy contemporary, "The Wildcat Weekly" has suggested, the duel between Chip Long and John McLaughery in the hammer will be a feature of the meet. Clapp, the Brown sprinter beat Larry Scanlon of Holy Cross in a meet last week in less than 10 seconds.

At the same time another varsity sport will start its season off when the baseball team takes on Maine in the opening game, not only of the season, but also of the New England Intercollegiate league. The pitchers are well advanced but the batters and fielders need considerably more work. Al Roper and Bob Kershaw will see work in the opener. If his knee holds up satisfactorily, Jack Hersey should be a sensation this year. Anyway, it looks like a much better year than last season, and Coach Swasey predicts that they will win more than half of their games.

Although they have only played the game for a few weeks the freshman lacrosse team is doing a pretty fair job. To be sure, they have lost the last two games, one by a large score, nevertheless they all play hard and don't seem to be afraid to check the opposition with vengeance when they want to. We believe that the Harvard boys who played here last Saturday will agree with us. They were heard to remark more than once that the type of play was considerably rougher than that to which they were accustomed. However, the New Hampshire team seemed to be playing a hard game, but it was far from a dirty one. Good luck, fellows.

U. N. H. PRESIDENT TO SPEAK ON RADIO

President Fred Engelhardt will speak over the radio, Sunday afternoon, May 8, at 5:30 from the Boston shortwave station, W1XAL of the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation. The half-hour program is one of a series entitled "In the College President's Study" which presents many presidents and faculty members of New England Colleges and Universities. The station endeavors to create the atmosphere of the college being represented and plays recordings of college songs during the program. The president or some prominent faculty member speaks the remainder of the time.

The subject for President Engelhardt's address will be "Some Thoughts on Higher Education."

There will be a regular supper-outing at Mendum's Pond on Thursday evening. The wagon and cars will leave Ballard Hall at 5:00 P. M.

WILDCAT NINE TAKES ON MAINE IN OPENER

Another spring sport gets underway, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the varsity baseball team steps out on the Brackett field diamond, heavy favorites to lick the visiting Maine Bears.

For the pitching assignment, Coach Hank Swasey has selected Bob Kershaw, mainstay of last season's hurling squad, and he expects the dependable right-hander to keep the Bears quite tame. Behind the plate will be Jack Hersey, sophomore sensation, who will bat in the clean-up position. The infield will be composed of Art Hanson, at the initial sack; Art Murphy, second baseman; Les Flanzbaum, at shortstop; and Johnny Decker, on the hot corner. Cy Cotton, only returning outfield veteran, will patrol the garden, along with Larry Stewart and Doug MacDonald.

With tomorrow's contest, the Wildcat nine begins a lengthy schedule, as difficult as it is full. Playing at average intervals of three days, the Swaseymen stack up against such tough opponents as Harvard, Conn. State, Rhode Island State, Holy Cross, Boston College, and a host of other top-notch clubs. While Coach Swasey of course does not expect to lick all of these teams, he is confident that, with his well-balanced battery squad, and the intense competition in all the other positions, that his charges will turn in a very creditable season.

Recently, the squad was cut down to less unwieldy size, and those surviving the cut are as follows: Catchers—Hersey, Wheeler, Safir. Pitchers—Kershaw, Jordan, Roper, Martin, Nathanson, Skillin, Kirby, Bissell, Watkins. Infielders—Hanson, Johnson, Murphy, Carey, Flanzbaum, Plante, Decker, MacDonald. Outfielders—Cotton, Stewart, Noseck, Rickler, Horne.

Tomorrow's batting order will be as follows: Flanzbaum, ss; Cotton, cf; Stewart, lf; Hersey, c; Murphy, 2nd b; MacDonald, rf; Decker, 3rd b; Hanson, 1st b; Kershaw, p.

CAMPUS LUMINARIES COMMENT ON COMING JUNIOR PROMENADE

President Engelhardt says,

"I have been favorably impressed this last year with the success of our major all-university dances including the military ball, the carnival ball, the junior prom, and the commencement ball. I am sure that the 1938 Junior Prom will continue the splendid record."

Dean Woodruff says,

"I believe the Junior Prom will be a great success as it has been in years past. However, I find that the most inappropriate time during the entire school year to give a quiz and get any kind of results, is the Saturday morning following the Junior Prom. (So there will be no quizzes the following Saturday morning)."

Dean Alexander would not give any statement other than that he believes a certain amount of social activity is necessary for a student to have a well-rounded life. He stated that he thought it was too bad that there were so few professors in attendance at social functions such as the Junior Prom.

Dr. Iddles says,

"I hope that all the students, especially those who rarely attend college dances, will enjoy themselves at the Junior Prom."

Coach Justice,

"This dance should be a success as far as athletes attendance is concerned, for we have been saving plenty of players for just such events as the Junior Prom."

"Brad" McIntire says,

"The Junior Prom is one of the most colorful and interesting parties of the College year, because of the use of white summer formal attire. The class of '39 has our sincere wishes for a most successful dance. May the attendance be large, the weather fair, and the music 'hot'."

Professor Solt (Astronomy):

"I see it in the heavens that the Junior Prom will be a star studded success."

"Dad" Henderson says,

"Anyone with the money should go to the Prom—my specialty is a waltz. If these modern bands would play more waltzes I would be there."

Professors Bowler and Skelton believe, that everyone should enjoy themselves at the Junior Prom. Seeing that it is the one big social event of the Spring season, they will help the Junior Prom to be a success by assigning no special work, and not giving any quizzes on the following Saturday morning.

"Multum tibi prodest discipulos in collegio novisse; hoc magna cum voluptate facies si saltationi classis junioris aderis. Certe haec meminisse juvabit."

—by Professor J. S. Walsh

George Stenzil says,

"Dances may come, and dances may go, but there does not seem to be any question what-so-ever but that the Junior Prom is the dance to attend. The reasons are—the best time of the year to attend a dance—a good band—a fair price—an unbeatable combination."

John Floyd, Instructor of French says,

"If faut que jeunesse se passe!
Vivez, si m'en croyez, n'attendez a demain; Cueillez des aujourd'hui les roses de la vie! (Et quel jardin, le bal de vendredi!)"

Professor Perretton (Architecture):

"It may be your last dance in the Gym, so swing away and let the old building sway."

As quoted from "Duke" Blewett,

"In the spring a young man's fancy turns to the major leagues and the Junior Prom. Why should young men change their fancies this year? The Junior Prom used to be the major social event on the school calendar. I hope that the 1938 Junior Prom will show a return to form."

Professor Schoolcraft speaks:

"Dieser Junior-Prom wird der bedeinsten tanz dieses Fruchjahres sein. Und ein jeder sollte den Festlichkeiten beiwohnen. Die deutsche Gruppe (!) kann hier einen grossen Dienst leisten. Prosit dem Prom!"

The Chi O's say,

"We are deeply honored to be quoted in the column with our distinguished faculty, and we urge a large attendance at the most festive spring formal."

The obliging Mr. Floyd again:

"La vida es sueno." Esperamos que todos vayan al baile para gozar de la vida y que hagan del baile un sueno inolvidable."

Poetry in the Spring, even from the Profs:

THE JUNIOR PROM

Men say
That we Don't know
A thing.

(Mr. Editor says so, too!)

That profs
Don't teach
Or earn
Their salt.

(I've wondered about that, too!)

Then let's
Away
To the Junior Prom.

(It will cost you five bucks!)

We'll roam
With HER
In garden sweet.

(Oh, so sweet!)

We'll swing
And swing
Till day-
Light dawns.

(Rules are off, you see!)

We'll flirt
With girls
And not Ideas.

(It's a lot of fun!)

Then home
To bed,
No quiz
Ahead.

(Didn't Miss Woodruff say so!)

—by Mrs. M. M. Smith.

Phi Mu fully believes that the coming Junior Prom will be even more successful than the other big dances of the year.

From Dr. Slobin, who as everyone knows was quite a gay young blood in his time, would probably say "Be sure and take in the Prom. If you haven't the price just integrate 3dx taken from the limits of 0 to 1.1$ and there you have it."

Dr. Daggett theorizes:

The prom to go
And studies know;
Chemists, it's quite a problem.
But studies now
Then to prom go,
You see, you have no problem.

Alpha Xi's say,

"According to the number of imports expected at our house this week-end, Junior Prom is going to be a howling success."

From ye Jack Grant:

"Since the Junior Prom is the last major social function of the year, no one should pass up this chance to attend, and since we are the last restaurant to close that night, everyone should come in and hear Ray Patten sing, 'Underneath the Bamboo Tree.'"

Large Crowds Attend the Second Annual Display Of Science Departments

Stunts rivaling a house of magic were featured in DeMeritt Friday afternoon and evening, and Saturday morning, when the College of Technology held open house. The electrical engineering department electrocuted hot dogs, popped corn by high frequency, and fried bacon by electro-magnets. The major part of the demonstrations were not too technical for the layman to enjoy and among the more spectacular displays were high-frequency arcs, iron-wire melters, reaction timers, voice-recording and five-meter radio communication for those who wished to broadcast.

High School Students Attend

This week-end marked the second annual display of technological equipment, the general public being invited to all sessions with an especial invitation to the high school people of the state for the Saturday morning session. All departments of the College of Technology took part in the demonstrations, there being exhibitions of equipment by the mechanical and civil engineering departments, drawings and designs by the architectural department, and woodwork, forge, and machine work by the shops.

Liberal Arts Department Participates

On Saturday morning from 10 to 10:30 the science departments of the College of Liberal Arts displayed exhibits. Gamma Kappa and Phi Sigma, respective honorary societies of the Departments of Geology and of Zoology explained the displays of equipment and specimens. In Conant Hall the geological display included an ultra-violet lamp that causes minerals, rocks, and some other materials to glow or "fluoresce" in weird colors; the meteorological instruments that record pressure, temperature, and humidity; a high-power microscope that is based on micro-slides and in conjunction with polarized light on thin rock sections.

Map-making is an essential part of the geologist's work and structural, topographic, and political maps were shown. The path of a low-pressure area and its on the meteorological maps.

Embryonic Development Shown

The zoological exhibit in Thompson hall featured displays showing the embryonic development of a chick and a frog; technique in slide-making; the evolution of the mammalian brain; the types of animals and their relationships; and many other explanations of course work in the Zoology department.

Theta Upsilon:

Biggest and Best Junior Prom—Fewer and Fewer Studies.

Alpha Chi Omega has to say, that

"We feel that the rebirth of enthusiasm in the student body will make as great a success of the Junior Prom as it did of the past football season."

Art Stewart, Durham's Billy Rose:

"Because of the popularity of the University's prom and the renown beauty of the past prom, I am glad to announce that I have influenced Robert Taylor to attend, and be crowned with the Queen."

Jim Gorman says,

"The musical swingsters around here say that the band for Junior Prom is one of the best in years. So everyone go to the dance, and, if you have nothing else to do during intermission, treat your girl to a special 'Junior Prom Sundae.'"

Louis, the Cop:

"Have a good time at the dance, but take it easy when you get outside. Don't show your girl how fast you can drive, but show her that you can still be her flame without a lot of fuel to help you out."

From Dick Daland,

"Another Junior Prom! The class of 1939 is to be congratulated. Colorful spring costumes, Dean Hudson's music, the garden setting in the gym, plus the ever-present 'Gingervating' accessories from the Wildcat, guarantee the continued success of this dance as the 'tops' in campus proms."

The Dean's secretary says:

"The Junior Prom is always the best antidote for Spring Fever."

Hotel Administration Course Inaugurated at University

Designed to train selected young men and women on a semi-vocational plan to undertake hotel work and to contribute to the further development of recreational opportunities in New Hampshire, a four-year curriculum in hotel administration will be inaugurated at the University of New Hampshire in September.

Reputed to be the first of its type in a New England college and the third in the country, the curriculum has been developed in recognition of the growth of hotel management as a career for young men and women. Courses already offered in accounting, engineering, home economics, chemistry, history, languages, economics, and English have been combined with courses in the specialized field of hotel operation to offer a program of broad study.

The basic work lies in four main divisions—foods, engineering, accounting, and special hotel work. Six courses appear in the hotel administration field, including a course in orientation designed to introduce the student to the life of the University and to the work of the department of hotel administration, and a series of lectures delivered by representative men in the hotel business and allied fields. Other specialized courses are hotel operation in which the fundamental problems of location, equipment, personnel, rate structure and the relation of the individual institution to the industry in general will be taught; hotel public relations representing the relations of the hotel with the public as either prospective or present guests, attempting also to introduce work in sales promotion, media, and advertising; front office procedure to study the layout of a hotel office, the members of the staff and their relations to other staffs, and the equipment and procedures of keeping guest accounts; and introductory hotel engineering as a study in the application of selected topics of physical science to problems relating to hotel buildings and equipment.

Classroom study will be supplemented with actual summer work in representative hotels in this section, the student receiving practice credits for each week of work.

The curriculum in hotel administration was drawn up and instituted by University officials in consultation with leading hotel owners and managers in the state. The courses and summer work will be directed by Raymond R. Starke, assistant professor of hotel administration, a member of the University faculty since 1921. Mr. Starke has been for 18 summers engaged in all phases of hotel management and is at present assistant manager of a large resort hotel on Cape Cod. Since February 1, and until the close of the present school year, he is on leave of absence studying in the department of hotel administration at Cornell University.

According to plans of the Board of Trustees, the services of the University, through Mr. Starke, will be made available for consultation on hotel problems with proprietors and managers of hostleries.

NOTICES

There will be a chorus rehearsal for the May pageant Thursday, April 28 at 1:00 P. M. at Murkland auditorium.

There will be a meeting of the Senior Class on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in Room 14, Murkland. Plans for commencement will be discussed.

"All signs point to the Junior Prom as being Life's 'Party of the Week'."

And Albert the Janitor says,

"The Junior will only be Junior once, and the thing to do is to go to your Junior Prom and have a good time."

The Boys:

"The main topic of discussion at the Dog-Cart, seems to be the Junior Prom. We know it will top all social events of the year. The success of the Prom will be determined the next morning by the amount of tomato juice consumed."

And we say goodnight with what the Night Watchman says,

"The boys should have quite a time on Junior Prom Week-end. They were pretty quiet during Mil. Art. Ball, Carnival Ball and the Sophomore Hop did not turn out to be much. It's about time for the boys to break loose for a loud week-end. Still, they don't go at things the way they used to in the times past."

GLEE CLUBS PRESENT COMBINED CONCERT

The 13th annual Spring concert of the University of New Hampshire Symphony orchestra and combined Women's and Men's Glee Clubs will be held at the gymnasium on May 18.

Specially featured in this concert will be piano solos by Miss Huldah Boerker, '38; and a violin solo by Leonard Coplen, '40.

The combined glee clubs, consisting of 65 members in all, will sing three numbers: Motet: Create in Me, Johannes Brahms; and the two folk songs, The Farmer's Daughter, from the Old English, arranged by Gerard William; and the well-known folk song, The Arkansas Traveler.

The orchestra, consisting of 20 pieces, will play Silver Shadows, a tango, by Charles Repper; The Last Spring, by Edvard Grieg; the First Movement of the Unfinished Symphony, by Franz Schubert, and Strike Up the Band, by George Gershwin.

The three piano solos by Miss Boerker are not yet decided upon. The famous Allegro Moderato of Cesar Franck's Sonata in A Major for Violin and Piano will be played by Mr. Coplen.

The Women's Glee Club will sing Peter Warlock's Rest Sweet Nymphs; and the Mens' Glee Club will sing the Canon: Full Fathom Five from The Tempest, by John Ireland.
